ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Before all, I would like to thank God for the never-ending help He provides me and all of us with, in all His grace.

I give thanks to my daughter, one of the human beings I love without boundaries, as she chose me to be her mother, but also due to the lessons we both learned from each other.

Huge gratitude goes to my beloved friend, Ramona M. C., the one who offered to transcribe my courses, thus making the writing of this trilogy possible.

Many thanks to all my loved ones, for all their love and support. For them, and for you all, I keep on stepping forward!

FOREWORD

I came into this world to write this BOOK. And to spread the information in this book, as widely as possible, through courses, conferences, TV shows, group sessions, workshops and personal development retreats, or via whatever sort of activity meant to facilitate this process.

I acknowledge this as the major purpose of this life of mine on planet Earth, as well as the purpose of my previous lives here. Those preceding existences trained me in learning the best way of conveying, as clearly as possible, the message I am sending out.

In this very life, I've been preparing for this purpose since early childhood. Back then, I would let flow through me information I was not even ready to properly express, as words were still not a thing for me. However, the channeling would happen through images I used to explain. Nonetheless, half a century ago, these were weird things, hard to grasp by the human mind. It was as if I was speaking a different language, which adults were unable to perceive. As a result, alike all children who had their communication channels open, I had to face blockages and interferences.

By the time I was 5 years of age, I understood that I was not allowed to express my thoughts out loud. And that, regardless of the person I would choose to convey the message to, my words were like aliens.

I still remember having visited a neurologist, as well as having an E.E.G (electroencephalogram) done, which was proof of my mental health. Despite the given result, no-one would believe that the diagnosis was precise, as it didn't fit in with the different language I was using. I also remember our way back home from the medical centre, passing by RAC (the Romanian Automobile Club) which was on the corner, next to the old entrance of the Obor Passage which, in the meantime, turned into a metro station. Back then, there were four exits to this passage, as the crossing of the boulevards was made through it (as per the explanations I was given).

At the same time, I recall working on a vision I had, with a boy (a peer of mine) who was sleeping. I had the strong belief that the boy was another me, from another world. There was a mystery I was trying to solve: did I really exist in this lifetime or was I just the dream of a sleeping child? And what would happen to me once the boy was awake?

My life experience until that point was telling me that my existence was a continuous one, as I had images of the house, images of the household activities from different days, thus I was real - beyond that sleeping boy's dream! But I kept on wondering what would happen to me once the boy was awake. Interestingly, my answer at that point was that I would be asleep once the boy woke up.

As a flash before my eyes, the image of my dream, in which the boy was living, came up. Obviously, that begged a new question: if each of us lived in the dreams of the other, what would happen if both of us were awake?

And I came across a logical explanation for the given situation: as day-time was longer than night-time (fact that was already a certainty to me) and each of us was asleep once night-time set in on our side, it was obvious that it was day-time for the other one and vice versa; then, the number of hours over there would never equal the number of hours over here, therefore we would never be awake at the same time, since one of us would be awake when the other was sleeping. Consequently, the child who was awake would exist in the dream of the one who was asleep.

But these were things adults could not understand, so I would not be able to speak my mind.

One moment later, the tram arrived, so my analysis had to stop.

Everything that followed during my earthly experience, after that moment of contemplation, had something to do with this Book.

I never realized this until now. But one Sunday night, as I started to write things that were being revealed by my stellar higher self, when everything followed a sequence resulting in the one I am right now - while writing this book, everything made sense. Moreover, everything seemed to be connected to what used to be tireless work: continuous study (proven by wide walls covered in books and research) with no timeout or enough sleep; with long nights of reading and thought process and analysis of the gathered information, verified and certified by scientific concepts.

Hence, by unfolding the information and the connections that would lead from one to another, I realized that each of the subjects we studied in primary school and high-school encompassed the basic scientific information, meant to help us all understand the world around us. For a deeper understanding of these basic concepts, books, dictionaries, compendia, and research are great resources.

There is a certain beauty in learning new things. This process opens up incredible gates that lead to a path of freedom (which, by the way, was always there for us to walk through, yet we were unable to see it, holding onto the belief that whether it did not exist or it was too hard to find).

After all the psycho-spiritual analysis I've undergone over the past years, I claim this path to be nothing less than fascinating!

It was extremely interesting, packed with loads of signs, lessons, events, situations, moods, experiences, all interconnected, and all of them leading to this moment of writing them on paper.

This is for you, dear soulful reader, and it represents the conclusion to my revelations, bringing us all answers to tormenting questions:

"Who are we?"

"Where do we come from?"

"What are we doing here? What is the purpose of our present existence?"

"Where are we heading to?"

I must confess, my dear one, that I have a rich life, with plenty of beautiful humans and things in it; with a lot of lessons, from which I learned and I still do; with the blessing of being a mother and of bringing up my child in a beautiful manner; with the joy of being a therapist and of gifting respect and love to the ones whom life brought into my life; with the happiness of being a spiritual guide to those who are willing to overcome the limitative mental constructs; of course, to all of the above, adding the joy of writing and of offering it to the ones who need it.

Hence, let us all join hands for this much needed and sublime journey, which will unfold with each step of the way. And I'm saying this as the veils that have kept our eyes into the shadow of time for centuries will slowly but steady come off. As such, we will find the way towards ourselves and towards a bright balanced life.

What I'm presenting to you is no result of imagination. It is highly achievable. And, since YOU started reading this book, you have most probably reached the terminus point of your own journey; I believe you've already found the gateway to paradise, a place where the Divine can be found.

With love and appreciation,
Your guide for the journey to unfold,
Flori Mateescu

AUTHOR'S NOTE

What should this book be about?

It is a journey we are taking together, with our eyes wide open, within the pages of the most famous yet possibly the less understood book on earth - the Bible. What I mean is the that, back in the days when the Bible was written, people used a different language than the one we use today; people had a different level of knowledge, considering the low schooling degree of the population, which led to very few of them being literate - often times referred to as Sages. The information revealed and written in the Bible came from a wise source that presented an unexcelled abundance of information; this information was encrypted with a system of symbols and phrases that can be read beyond the obvious and can be perceived and understood, if we have essential spiritual knowledge.

In fewer words, each of us reads (if applicable) and understands based on the individual stack of knowledge. In the absence of this basic layer of spiritual knowledge, the Bible solely represents an old times story, which will not cross the barrier of historical information. Therefore, I set my intention (and I invite you to come along) for briefly reading through the Bible and to understanding the message the Source sent to all of us ages ago. As a matter of fact, we will only go through the first few pages. If we were to go through the entire Bible, I should have written at least 3 books.

The difference I'm making with this book is the fact that explanations of that text will also be there; you will hereby have at hand a simple and accessible to all translation of the information, as my intention is for all of us to have a pleasant trip to the land of knowledge and understanding. This book, in its complete shape, is a trilogy, as follows: book 1 - GENESIS, book 2 - CREATION, and book 3 - REVELATION.

Throughout this journey, we become and we will remain friends, as we are beings who were lovingly brought to life by the same Creator; we are beings gifted with intelligence, learning capacity and understanding abilities. In this book, we will have a dialogue in which we call each other by our first name, like good friends do. As the pages turn, you will understand how this friendship I'm mentioning comes to be.

As I said before, this trilogy refers to the 3 main aspects of the Bible: Genesis, Creation and Revelation (or the Apocalypse). Each aspect can, in fact, be identified with the clear states of our existence: the beginning, the manifestation and the ending, all of them closing the circle of this creation we are all a tiny part of.

At this point in time, I would like to introduce you to my point of view, in regards to the concepts of Genesis and Creation. In the Bible, these two make the beginning title together.

According to the dictionary, genesis is the process of birthing or creation of something. At the core level, it is the process in which something is being conceived or a shape is being created for something that will be conceived.

This represents the incipient phase, the virtual concept of Creation, the initial idea which will be created in the material realm.

In order to get a better understanding of this concept, you may want to consider comparing this phase with something going on into your own life. For instance, at some point, you might have considered creating your own piece of clothing (you can choose whatever else fits your situation), thus the first step is to think about creating that piece. Next, you create it in your mind, in general terms, and later on it develops into fine details. In order to configure everything as best as possible, you need to think about as many appropriate, concise and clear details as you can for the desired picture to come together. This is the first stage you will go through for your project to unfold.

Similarly, the first book - Genesis - will be the rendition of the beginning of our journey together.

The Creation is the process of materializing the idea conceived in the genesis phase. Obviously, during the stage of creation you start molding and manifesting the previously generated concept, bringing it to life.

In making a parallel, the first chapter of the Bible "Genesis. Creation" brings references to both of the aforementioned phases, the programming aspect being attributed to the Creation part as well. We will discover deeper meanings of these concepts on the way, however, since they represent different stages we will cover each of them in different books. The purpose of this approach is to bring clarity over individual phases, in order to easily digest and implement the information. My intention is to explain as much as possible, from both the spiritual and psychological angles, while speaking an easy language for all. It is my mission to help the conscious mind grasp as much as possible, in times of heavy load.

In closing the cycle of the process, the third book - Revelation - will uncover the fact that an ending becomes a new beginning, and will explain how this is achievable. By the end of our journey, you should be able to create your own path towards reaching the state of transformation. Each piece of information (including the ones which might repeat here and there, under different shapes) will guide you step by step towards meeting your own true self and towards your becoming. Repetitions will have multiple purposes - pinning information down will be just one of them; another purpose will be bringing clarity over as many aspects as possible, in regards to the scriptural information. As a consequence, the process of repetition becomes an anchoring factor, leading to highly needed acknowledgements.

The initial shape of the content of this book will be of great help in the process of gathering information and awakening. My intention, however, is to bring further additions to this very form, with the help of a team of experts, in order to bring to surface deeper messages sent by the source through the Bible. I am aware of the fact that the vision I just mentioned (which will be a monumental piece of work) will come to fruition once this first version will have achieved its goal. And that goal is to touch your soul through the process of acknowledging the wide range of information that is available within you; however, not many people (if none) taught you how to access and use this knowledge; people don't necessarily share how to get in touch with and get to know your inner self. Additionally, even less people impart knowledge about how you can bring what you discover within to your next level of evolution. If any question may arise while reading this book, please think it through and write it down, as this will greatly contribute to creating a dialogue between us (you and me). Also, you may even come across the answer you are looking for, if it is allowed for everyone to see it.

If you are wondering how all this can be, the answer is pretty simple: this book is just a dialogue, a conversation between the two of us.

May you have a blessed journey!

Flori Mateescu
