

LBRIS

We know books

A black and white photograph of the character Maleficent, featuring her iconic horns and large, dark wings. She is standing in a dark, forest-like setting with trees in the background.

Disney
MALEFICENT

Level 6

Re-told by: Lynda Edwards
Series Editor: Rachel Wilson

In This Book

Maleficent

The strongest fairy, who becomes the Protector of the Moors

Stefan

Maleficent's friend, who wanted to be king

Princess Aurora

A happy and kind child. Maleficent calls her "Beastie"

Diaval

A black bird who changes into a man, and different animals, with Maleficent's magic

The Flower Pixies

The king asks them to look after Aurora when she is a child

The Moors

A beautiful land where fairies and magical creatures live

Introduction

The land of humans and the land of the Fair Folk, which is called the Moors, have always been enemies. Greedy kings have wanted to own this beautiful land. Now it is dangerous for the Fair Folk to go into the human land, or for humans to go into the Moors. There is a story that one day a strong leader will bring the two lands together in peace. One day, a young fairy and a human boy become friends, but who is the hero and who is the villain? Will peace ever come to these lands?

Activities

1 Read In This Book and answer the questions.

- 1 Who do you think is the hero?
- 2 Who do you think is the villain?
- 3 Who do you think will fall in love?
- 4 Who do you think will change their ideas during the story?

2 Choose the correct words. You can use the Glossary.

- 1 Fairies / Humans have wings and can do magic.
- 2 People catch fish in a chain / net.
- 3 If a fairy curses / kisses you, something bad will happen.
- 4 Iron / Peace is a metal.
- 5 Some flowers have sharp thorns / needles.

A Strange Meeting

This is a story about two lands. They were neighbors but they were also great enemies.

In one country, the people were humans. Some people were poor and were farmers. Others were rich and lived in castles. Their king, Henry, was a greedy man.

The other country was the Moors and it was a land of fairy folk. There, the trees, valleys, and pools were alive with all kinds of strange and wonderful creatures.

A young fairy called Maleficent lived in this magical place. Her happy smile brought light and love to the land and all the creatures.

King Henry wanted the Moors. He, like his father and his grandfather, wanted to own the beautiful land and everything in it. He was ready to fight to get it, but the fairies were strong, and they had magic.

These lands needed to become friends. They needed a strong leader to bring peace.

This is the story of that leader, too.

