Before You Read

Introduction

Hiro makes really cool robots. Then he takes them to robot fights and wins money. But sometimes the fights get dangerous and Hiro's brother, Tadashi, has to save him. Since their parents died, Tadashi helps take care of Hiro, but he worries about him. Tadashi shows Hiro that studying at his lab can be fun. But then things get out of control ...

Hiro and his Brother

“Can I try?” asked the boy.

“What’s your name?” said Yama.

“Hiro,” the boy answered.

They put the robots in the circle. “Megabot, destroy!” said Hiro. Megabot broke into pieces and attacked Yama’s big robot. It pulled off the arms, then the head. Hiro won but Yama was very angry.

Yama said to his men: “Get him!” Yama’s big men ran toward Hiro, but Tadashi arrived at that second. SCREECH!

“Hiro, get on!” he cried.

“Are you okay?” Tadashi asked.

“Yes,” said Hiro.

“Are you hurt?” asked Tadashi.

“No,” said Hiro.

“Then what are you doing?!” asked Tadashi angrily.

Hiro laughed but Tadashi didn’t. Their parents died when Hiro was three. Since then, Tadashi was more than a big brother. They lived with their aunt, but Tadashi also looked after Hiro.

“You’re so smart ... when are you going to use that mind of yours for something interesting?” asked Tadashi. He wanted Hiro to study at the San Fransokyo Institute of Technology.
