echoes of you and me tell me something better than 'hihi wars' or you calling me yours?

we should definitely make a deal pinch me to be sure that's real your little heart beats so loud with you I feel like being on a cloud when I lay my head on your shoulder I don't feel like it's getting colder

I'm sinking into your poisonous voice I don't even want to have another choice drawing white hearts on every picture everything around me begins to flicker

I want to hear you talking about music all day I can't wait to listen to what you'll say how am I supposed to cope with your brown eyes they are making me write a few lines late night talks would have been nice but I'm always a sleepy slice thank you for staying with me I won't let you down you'll see

I really love to lie on your chest I just feel like I'm in a nest I seem to be worth thinking of you've never given all your heart to love you might be spoiling me too much I hope you won't be an old touch the first kiss caught on camera was like riding for the first time a bike the necklace you gave me is a lot I'm now tied to you like a knot how do you sleep in your nightwear it is so and so unfair because I'm not with you apparently I am your first love I really thought it was a simple joke and when you tickle me back I am always ready to attack

I drove you crazy with pictures indeed but we both know that's what I need big hugs make me feel like none of it is real

I love visiting bookstores with you it's not like you didn't already know when I was rolling you over did you like it, dear lover?

it is the hoodie you gave me that makes me feel so free and I think you ate my soul cause I have no control you will be far away I can already see grey but I will definitely stay cause still in my heart you lay should our love be enough?

I think we can stay tough it feels so strange, ghostly, unreal to make another promising deal.

hold on to me like this it's all we're going to miss forget the regrets of life cause it cuts like a knife.

I am always here by your side and even if you can hide in every universe you'll find this very green-eyed

I woke up next to you and my dream came true it felt like the prettiest morning cause my heart was burning when I press your buttons I pushed aside the curtain and what I found worse was another crazy universe

(to be continued in another lifetime maybe) when the music in the club got higher you looked at me too deeply in my eyes and our souls set each other's on fire suddenly nothing but nothing dies kissing me when the sun comes why did you have the guts?

I felt your heartbeats as some playing drums the remaining moon looked back at us what will happen after this long week?

I am living in someone else's mind or should I start playing hide and seek?
I can't be left at the bottom of the wine you told me that wine is the most romantic drink

and now I keep wondering why you drink it with me I laid my head on your shoulder and you did the same my heart feels warmer, I hope you are feeling okay you showed me things that I was scared about I swallowed hard because the pain took over me we changed so much, yet you are a little bit the same your golden soul is brighter than the moonlight

I was forced to remember the good old nights you were the only one who could make them disappear I will slip and fall and drown some more million times and then I rise from the ashes or maybe just burn again...

you and I were like a cluster of stars our chemistry was impossible to unravel tangled in our bones locked in our minds buried in each other's souls endlessly we are held together by our mutual desire suffocated by some gravitational wave of attraction just the two of us bound for a long time in this infinite universe of unknown we had traveled to the moon and back but did not pass the test of time too close

if you get too close, I'll turn you into poetry each touch will be written down, covered by a layer of ink if the rhythm of your heartbeat, verses will flow capturing the essence of what we've come to know there is something about you that makes my soul spin and sparkle

maybe your eyes are reflecting skies of endless blue, in oceans deep, where dreams pursue.

and I'll have to admit it again, your curls seem like they are dancing in sunlight's kiss, they find their way our hearts met on a whispered wing, in a tender gaze and sky embrace and because somehow we met by accident I find a glimpse of destiny, intertwined.
